2 Killed As Plane Crashes In Flames

Paris, Oct. 24 (AP)—Gilbert Lane, an American aviator, and his French flying companion, Pierre Nicholas, were killed today when a plane in which they were taking off for Cairo, crashed and was destroyed by flames.

Lane who enlisted in the French army during the World war was understood to have been an American citizen who later naturalized in France. He was said to have been the youngest aviator in the French army.

To the Editor of The Times: Beverly Hills, Calif., Oct. 24—Say, we got a great treat in store for us next Tuesday evening. Bernard Shaw is going to talk to us over the radio for forty minutes. He is the most interesting and entertaining man in the world today. He and Mussolini are pretty near a tie. You don't need to ask any questions when you meet either one of 'em. Just sit still and listen.

Shaw told me that the United States and Russia are the most unique countries in the world today. Russia was trying a great experiment, and was trying everything that came along, and that we were both in the experimental stage. England don't know yet whether Shaw is for 'em or against 'em.

Yours,

Will Rogers.

URGES COUNTY DRIVERS TO ACT

Elton G. Boyer Points To Shortness Of Time For Inspection.

With but six working days remaining to the September 15 to October 31 period set aside by the state for compulsory inspection of motor vehicles, Elton G. Boyer, president of the Gettysburg motor club, today warned local car owners who have not yet had their cars inspected and approved to do so without delay.

There will be no extension of time, he said, and any motorists on the road after October 31 without an official sticker on his car will be dealt with in a drastic way. In this connection Mr. Boyer called attention to the results of the Save-a-Life campaign being conducted in co-operation with the Pennsylvania motor federation in this and other parts of the state.

"There has been a noticeable decrease in the number of accidents in this section," he said, "since the Save-a-Life campaign got under way. To be sure, there still are far too many careless and reckless drivers, but for the most part the motorists in this vicinity seem to be exerting an extra effort to drive carefully and it is hoped that this manner of the Save-a-Life campaign will continue, not only during the campaign, but throughout the year."

The Pennsylvania motor federation, with which the local club is affiliated, reports that throughout the state there has been a considerable decrease in accidents since September 15. President Boyer said, "As drivers come to realize more fully the importance of safe and sane operation of a car they are inclined to take fewer chances," he stated, "and that is what the federation and the Gettysburg motor club are endeavoring to bring about through this Save-a-Life campaign. And if it results in the saving of but one life in this community it will be worth while."

Toledo Ambulance, Bearing 2 Sisters, Crashes; Both Die

Toledo, Oct. 24 (AP)—An ambulance speeding to a hospital with two sisters, brides of a few months, collided with an automobile last night, killing the two and placing a third woman near death.

The ambulance was carrying Mrs. Mary Emch, 18, and her sister, Mrs. Ethel Langerman, 19, when it struck an automobile in which Mrs. Anna Clark was a passenger. The two sisters, already near death from burns suffered in an explosion while cleaning their curtains, were pulled from the ambulance as the front of it burst into flames. Mrs. Clark was hurled 20 feet into the side of a building and it was feared she too will not live.

NINE PERSONS HOMELESS FROM BLAZE IN HOME

Boy First To Discover Blaze Which Burns A Biglerville Dwelling.

TOTS RESCUED FROM PORCH

The double frame house in Biglerville from which an aged man and his two great-grandchildren were rescued when fire of undetermined origin broke out in the kitchen, Thursday afternoon, was almost completely damaged by the flames, smoke and water. The loss is estimated at $3,000, partly covered by insurance. Nine persons were made homeless.

One side of the house was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Schriver and their six children and Mr. Schriver's grandfather, John J. Hess, 78, while the other half was unoccupied.

Mr. Hess and two of the Schriver children, Richard, 4, and Gerald, 2, were asleep, Thursday afternoon, when the cries of the older child aroused the aged man. The child exclaimed: "There's a fire down stairs."

Mr. Hess attempted to quiet the child, by saying the only fire in the house was in the stove, but the young boy insisted the fire was not in the stove, whereupon the aged man started down stairs to investigate.

Met by Flames
He was met at the foot of the stairs by a flash of flame, and hastily retraced his steps. Mr. Hess then took the children and put them on the front porch roof from which they were rescued by Norman Billis, Gettysburg tire salesman.

Mr. Hess then went to the garret in an effort to save some bed clothing there. By that time, however, the flames had gained considerable headway and were spreading to the roof. With the arrival of the Biglerville fire company, Mr. Hess was removed from the burning structure through a garret window.

It is believed that Richard Schriver went down stairs after Mr. Hess and his brother fell asleep, and discovered the flames.

Working at Factory
Mr. and Mrs. Schriver were working at a Biglerville canning factory at the time and their other four children were in school.

The rear end of the double house was practically destroyed, along with the roof, one side and part of the second floor. Only two windows in the structure remained unbroken after the fire.

The place was so badly damaged that Mrs. Emma Ulrich, the owner, believes that it cannot be repaired, but will have to be rebuilt.

Neighbors offered the homeless family shelter Thursday night. Almost all of their personal effects were burned.

The memos were handed to all office holders as they reported for work this morning. The statement being printed on plain paper.

A. Boyd Hamilton, assistant chairman of the Republican state committee, said "I have nothing to say" when asked the source of the memorandum and the extent of their circulation.

Harvest On In Forests At Caledonia; Used In Springtime.

District foresters of the Pennsylvania department of forests and waters are now busy collecting the ripening seed of ash, hemlock, pitch pine and black locust trees in the forests near Caledonia. Large quantities of these seeds will be gathered and then shipped to the department's seed extraction plant at the state forest tree nurseries at Mt. Alto.

Tree seed gathered this fall will be sown next spring and the resulting seedlings will become available for reforestation in one, two and three years, depending upon the species and the size of the stock grown.

Collect Seed
In addition to the seed being collected in Pennsylvania, the department will purchase 200 pounds of red pine seed, 300 pounds of Norway spruce, 100 pounds of Japanese larch, 100 pounds of Scotch pine, and enough pitch pine and hemlock to make up for what cannot be gathered in the forests of the state.

Because Scotch pine, Norway spruce and Japanese larch are foreign species, and plantations of these trees in Pennsylvania are not old or numerous enough to produce a satisfactory supply of seed, it is necessary to purchase these seeds from reliable foreign collectors.

Seed of native trees which cannot be secured in sufficient quantities from Pennsylvania woodlands is collected in other states by firms specializing in seed collection. Red pine is secured chiefly in the lake states and Minnesota.

Extracted From Husks
Tree seed is collected with the husks on and the seed separated from the fruit before planting. This work is done during the winter, so that the seed is ready for planting as soon as nursery operations begin early in the spring.

That a much greater bulk of material must be gathered than is finally available for sowing is illustrated by the fact that it takes one bushel of white pine cones to produce one pound of seed, one bushel of red pine cones to produce only a half a pound of seed, and one bushel of hemlock cones to yield two pounds.

GIVE RULES AS SEASON NEARS

Game Reported Plentiful In All Sections Of Pennsylvania.

Within a few weeks, hordes of sportsmen from all parts of eastern Pennsylvania are expected to descend upon the hills and mountains of Adams county. Thursday, division game supervisors, meeting in the state capital, reported game generally very good in all parts of the state. Feed was also reported fairly plentiful.

Sportsmen throughout the state were urged to cooperate with the game commission not only during the season but before it. Several cases of illegal hunting for deer, none of them in Adams county, were reported.

Set of Rules
A set of rules for hunters was laid down by the commission, some of which follow:

"Sportsmen should never hesitate to report violation of the game laws that come to their attention. It is only in this manner that the game commission can apprehend the vandal."

"Sportsmen are urged to exert every care with firearms while in the woods this year. Too many accidents occur each season."

"There is no need to stress the matter of guarding against forest fires. As a general rule, hunters are ever careful of fire while in the forests for they know only too well that when the cover goes the game goes."

List of Don'ts
Some of the don'ts mentioned by the game commission are as follows: "Don't forget to cooperate with the game protectors. Help them perpetuate your sport." Game protectors are the sportsmen's best friends.

"Don't forget, sportsmen, that the pre-season gunner is stealing your sport. Send in the license numbers of those whom you see violating the game laws; that's what you call co-operation."

"Don't neglect to carry a roster with you when three or more are hunting big game together. This applies to day-hunters. Those in camps must have rosters posted in the buildings."

"Don't neglect to send in the stub attached to your resident hunter's license certificate giving the amount of game killed for the season. Such data helps the board of game commissioners."

"Don't unload your firearm in a building. Go outside and remove the loads. Always have your guns pointing toward the ground when removing the shells."

"Don't get excited if you become lost in the mountains. Three shots in succession from your gun will very often bring assistance. Following the course of a stream will most always bring you out to civilization."

VISIT LODGE HERE

John F. Norton, Chambersburg, district deputy, will pay an official visit to Gettysburg Lodge, 1045, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, Monday evening. Officers are urging that all members attend. Roll call night also will be observed on Monday evening. Refreshments will be served.

FINE CANNERY $200 FOR REFUSE RUN INTO CREEK

Pollution Of Conewago At Table Rock Is Cause Of Death Of Fish.

CONDITION IS REMEDIED NOW

A fine of $200 has been imposed upon the C. H. Musselman company of Biglerville, for polluting Conewago creek, Justice of the Peace John C. Shealer said today. The alleged pollution consisted of running refuse from the Musselman Canning factory into the stream, according to Raymond Foulk, Table Rock, a deputy fish warden, who conducted the primary investigation.

According to Foulk, the refuse from the Musselman plant killed hundreds of fish in the stream and gave the water a strong odor which was particularly offensive to residents of Table Rock, where the Conewago is dammed for L. C. Plank's mill.

Foulk said the odor was traced to the Musselman plant, and C. H. Musselman, the owner, was notified. George James, Carlisle, a fish warden, assisted in the investigation.

Mr. Musselman today said his plant has been running waste water in the Conewago for 23 years, but that owing to the drought this summer the condition became aggravated. He said cinders were placed in the outlet stream in an effort to purify the waste water, and that every precaution is now being taken at the plant to take solids from the water before it goes into the stream.

"We never had any trouble like this before," Mr. Musselman said, "and as soon as we learned of the condition we secured the services of engineers to help remedy the condition. Our plant is now thoroughly screened and the Conewago should no longer be contaminated."

Foulk estimated that at least 500 fish and eels were killed in the Conewago by the refuse. In order to prevent other fish from dying, the dam at Plank's mill was opened and the fish allowed to swim down stream to fresher water.

DOE LICENSES PROVE POPULAR

Entire Issue Expected To Be Obtained By Hunters For Three-Day Season.

Judged from the present rate of application the entire allotment of 56,024 special licenses which permit the shooting of doe deer in certain sections of the state will be exhausted in the near future, officials of the game commission today asserted.

The licenses are being issued in accordance with totals determined at the last session of the game commission. For each county or parts of a county the total number of does which may be killed during the special season this fall will be eight times the number of legal bucks reported taken during the regular season last year.

The special licenses will be valid only for three days, November 27, 28 and 29.

Special Force
A special force of clerks is handling the applications received here. All the special licenses will be issued from the commissioners' offices instead of by county treasurers as in the state wide doe season of 1928.

So far the majority of applications have come from the residents of the more populous counties in which doe shooting will be permitted.

Because of the failure of applicants to supply the required information many of the applications have been delayed.

Officials of the commission today said that in each instance the application for a doe license must specify the county and resident hunter's license number of the applicant as well as the county or township in which he desires to hunt. The application also must show the name and address of the applicant, occupation, height, color of hair, color of eyes and age.

Republican committeemen and workers of Adams county. Attend rally at Republican club rooms, Saturday evening, 8 p. m. Candidates will speak. Refreshments.

OPTIMISM IS HEARD IN N. Y.

Industries Reported Calling Men Back To Work In Mid-West.

New York, Oct. 24 (AP)—A series of items of business optimism sang across the wires of the nation Thursday—the first anniversary of the stock market crash.

They told of several thousand men being called back to full-time jobs, of plants preparing to resume normal operations and, in one instance, of an increase in wages.

President Hoover's committee on unemployment began functioning at Washington and municipal agencies made definite movements for the relief of local conditions.

None would minimize the seriousness of the present situation, but there was an undercurrent of increasing optimism in the day's news.

Widow Protects Name Of Noted Husband

Berlin, Oct. 24 (AP)—Frau Kaethe Stresemann, widow of the late German foreign minister, Gustav Stresemann, it became known Thursday has resorted to legal methods to clear her husband's memory of graft accusations heaped upon him by fascist election campaigners.

Frau Stresemann invoked the law for the protection of the republic Tuesday, petitioning the ministry of justice to prosecute Doctor Diehl, fascist leader at Krefeld, alleging he stated during the campaign that her husband had drawn 1,000,000 marks (about $240,000) from the Bergen bank, at Venlo, Holland, as a reward for putting the Young plan across, while the French foreign minister, Briand, was declared to have received 3,000,000 marks for the same service.

BULLETS

the Bucknellians to turn back the Bullets.

The Orange and Blue of G-burg will battle their most powerful foe on their own lot. They will be playing before packed stands the majority of whom will be howling for a Gettysburg victory. The G-burg band will pour forth martial melodies to spur the Bream-coached tribe to higher levels of fight and determination. The underdogs in the fifth contest of the fall campaign have everything to gain and plenty to lose, if they emerge on the long or short end of the score. It all depends upon the outcome as to the benefit and harvest to be reaped by the Bullets.

Moss' Severe Test

They will be put to the most severe test of this year's grind and local fans will be given an opportunity to see them at their best. Most local followers concede the Bullets an even chance of dusting off the Bisons if they play the brand of football they demonstrated at Villanova. If they fail to measure up to this level it is likely that they will bow in submission to their Bucknell opponents.

Bucknell arrives here tonight at 8:30 o'clock. They are confident of defeating the Gettysburgians and the word has been passed down the line from Lewisburg that the Snaveley-coached tribe expects to administer the soundest drubbing the Bullets ever received on their own field.

The Bullets have what it takes to win and the hopes of local fans hinge on the ability of the local tribe to play the brand of ball they are capable of playing—such as they did against Villanova.

Twelve highway patrolmen will be on duty at the field, directing motor and pedestrian traffic and maintaining order.

Special bleachers have been erected to accommodate the capacity crowd. The additional bleachers were secured from the Gettysburg high school and the Hotel Gettysburg.

U. S. AGENCIES TO AID JOBLESS

Brown And O'Connor Make Reversals In Policy Of Cutting Expenses.

Washington, Oct. 24 (AP)—President Hoover's unemployment relief program took an unexpected turn Thursday when the postoffice and the shipping board jumped on the relief band wagon by changing economy policies which have led to repeated charges that these two agencies were themselves throwing people out of work.

The postoffice, which has come in for the heaviest criticism as a result of its refusal to replace retiring employees in the large cities, where deliveries were being cut down, and its unwillingness to give substitutes a chance to work, executed a qualified about face in the matter of substitute work.

Substitutes For Overtime Postmaster General Brown, after a call on Secretary Lamont, chairman of the cabinet committee on unemployment, announced orders were being prepared for immediate issuance under which the employment of substitutes for all overtime would be required. The purpose is to stagger the work of the postal service according to the plan which industry is being asked to follow.

Chairman O'Connor, of the shipping board, who also called on Secretary Lamont Thursday, followed the postmaster general's example by announcing the Merchant Fleet corporation would abandon for the time its plan to reorganize its service and to dispense with the services of 750 employees. Mr. O'Connor said the retention of the group of workers previously slated for discharge would involve an expenditure of about $1,000,000 a year.

TALKING CAUSED MAN TO BE HELD

Sheriff Tells Jury Real Estate Dealer's Tales Made Him Suspect.

Washington, Oct. 24 (AP)—A veteran Virginia sheriff testified Thursday that Herbert M. Campbell talked of the killing of Mary Baker until the stories resulted in a charge of murder against him.

The witness was Sheriff Howard E. Fields, of Arlington county, Virginia, a peace officer since 1897. He was followed on the stand by William C. Gloth, commonwealth attorney for Arlington county.

The courtroom was quiet as Gloth quoted Campbell as saying after a grueling examination in July:

Campbell Denies Murder "You have enough on me to arrest me, indict me, try me, convict me and execute me. Why should I tell you any more?"

Both witnesses, however, said Campbell went no further than admitting that a long series of stories he told them was untrue and that he denied that he killed the girl or knew who did.

The sheriff's story, told in a matter-of-fact voice, was a recital of the bizarre tales told by Campbell about the Baker case until, Fields said, "it looked suspicious."

GANGSTER CHIEF SHOT AT HOME

Partner Of Bugs Moran And Public Enemy Is Slain.

Chicago, Oct. 24 (AP)—A man believed to be Joe Aiello, a leader of the once powerful Moran-Aiello North Side gang, was slain by machine gun bullets Thursday night as he entered his home on the South Side.

The tentative identification was made by Sergeant McCullough of the police homicide squad. The victim's fingerprints and record at the bureau of identification were sent to the hospital to verify the identification.

Fifteen or twenty of the machine gun slugs, fired from a passing automobile, had passed into the body.

Aiello is one of the twenty-eight men listed by the Chicago crime commission as "public enemies." He, his brothers and George "Bugs" Moran, who was released under $10,000 bond Thursday on a vagrancy charge, long reigned supreme in the North Side of Chicago in the traffic in liquor, gambling and vice.

Boy's Presence Of Mind Saves Girl

Atlanta, Oct. 24 (AP)—Grace, Horace Buford's big sister, owes her life to Horace's ability to act in an emergency.

Horace, 9, and Grace, 11, were warning by an open gate Thursday when the girl's flimsy nightgown became ignited. Horace tore the gown from Grace and shouted to his mother who was in the back yard. The mother answered her son's summons and Grace was carried to a hospital.

The little girl was burned badly about the back, but will recover.

Queen Victoria's Letters Reveal Her Opinion of German King

London, Oct. 24 (AP)—Letters of the late Queen Victoria describing her grandson, Kaiser Wilhelm II, as "a hot-headed, conceited and wrong-headed young man, devoid of all feeling," were among the revelations made Thursday in a book compiled from confidential royal sources, including the archives of Windsor Castle.

Victoria also said that Gladstone, then prime minister, "will ruin the country if he can," the documents disclose.

The volume, edited by George Earle Buckle and published by the firm of John Murray, shows that

MAROONS PRIMED FOR SATURDAY

Face Hardest Contest In Battle With Mechanicsburg On Foreign Field.

Fully aware that they are facing their hardest game of the season, the Gettysburg high school football gridgers are primed for their battle with Mechanicsburg high on Saturday. The game will be played on the Mechanicsburg field and will start at 2:30.

Coach Eugene Martin has left no stone unturned to have his team in the best of condition. The high school mentor has served notice that every man will have to give his best every minute he is in the game or take the bench. A rejuvenated eleven will face the Mechanicsburg tribe, one that will not admit defeat until the final whistle blows.

The workouts this week have been the hardest the Bullets have been put through this season. Each night two hours of diversified practice was indulged in. Despite a game between the Maroon scrubs and the Gettysburg academy reserves on Wednesday evening, which the high team won 14-13, Coach Martin made no let up in his program and sent the regulars through a long signal drill on the lower practice field.

Mechanicsburg will place a formidable eleven on the field. Coach Mercer's team has as yet to taste a 1930 defeat, five straight victories being hung up by his club. They are the favorites of many to cop the conference title and will be at their best against Gettysburg.

Every man on the Maroon squad is reported to be in good physical condition and Gettysburg will have its full man-power for Saturday. Several changes may be expected in the Maroon lineup which is the result of some fine playing by Maroon reserves during the past week.

Mechanicsburg's starting lineup will probably include Houser and Moyer, ends; Falor and Bowman, tackles; Weaver and Yoder, guards; Beck, center; Gelwicks, quarterback; Burnett and Culp, halfbacks, and Baker, fullback.

BIG BILL IS OUT FOR HAM LEWIS

Opposes G. O. P. Senate Candidate In Illinois On Negro Issue.

Chicago, Oct. 24—"Big Bill" Thompson, mayor of Chicago, who Wednesday in an anonymous circular requested the 150,000 voting negroes of Illinois to cast their ballots for James Hamilton Lewis, the Democratic candidate, for the senate and against Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, the Republican aspirant, announced Thursday that he had no regrets. He arrived at his office at 10 o'clock and remained until 5.

He's been putting in these workaday hours since bandits held up his wife three weeks ago and released her of $18,000 worth of jewelry. Before that Big Bill tolled only from 3 p. m. till 5 p. m.—and not every day at that.

Callers Given Circular Today every person who called on the Republican mayor of the nation's second largest city was given a copy of the anti-McCormick circular from his own hands.

"Well, boys," said the mayor, "there seems to be a lot of doubt as to where these circulars are coming from. Let's clear up mystery by all of you taking one from me."

Telephone To Link U. S. And Australia

New York, Oct. 24 (AP)—The American Telephone and Telegraph company announced Thursday it will inaugurate regular commercial telephone service between North America and Australia next Monday.

The new circuit, the longest ever established for regular commercial telephony, consists principally of two radio links, one across the Atlantic and the other between England and Australia. With the wire lines involved, the circuit between New York and Sydney is more than 14,000 miles long.

The cost of a call between New York and any Australian point will be $45 for the first three minutes and $15 for each additional minute.

King Albert's widow had decided viewpoints of her own, whatever might have been the views or intentions of the government officers of her time.

Permission to publish these royal secrets, hidden from the world for years, was given by King George and, in the case of some of the letters, permission was said to have been secured also from the former kaiser at Doorn.

Regarding Wilhelm, she wrote: "How sickening it is to see Willy, not two months after his beloved and noble father's death, going to banquets and reviews; it is very indecent and very unfeeling."

Bars Divorced Persons

The queen would not admit to her court, nor have as ministers persons whose reputation she did not approve. For example, she declared that she would not accept Sir Charles Dilke as minister "on account of his dreadful private character."

Dilke had been named as correspondent in a divorce case. The queen said: "Every one looks on Sir C. Dilke as guilty, though he has gone off without punishment."

DENVER WOMAN IN CONFESSION

Tells Police To Get Frank, Brother Of Her Husband, In Child's Death.

Denver, Col., Oct. 24 (AP)—Mrs. Pearl O'Loughlin, stepmother of 10-year-old Leona O'Loughlin, found dead in a city park lake Thursday obtained a court order permitting her to confer with counsel a few hours after Bert Clark, detective captain, said she had assumed responsibility for the slaying.

Other developments in the strange case were announced in rapid succession. Frank O'Loughlin, the woman's brother-in-law, who lives in the prisoner's home, also was taken into custody. Captain Clark said Mrs. O'Loughlin, after an all-night grilling, shouted, "Get Frank and give us a sanity test. We must both be crazy."

District Attorney Earl Wettengel reiterated his decision to file a first degree murder charge against the stepmother today. He said he also was considering taking similar action against Frank O'Loughlin.

Plumbers Tear Up Pipes To Find Guns

Beaumont, Texas, Oct. 24 (AP)—Plumbers were probing a maze of pipes Thursday in an effort to recover $4,500 worth of diamond rings dropped in a drain in an apartment house.

Mrs. Sam Fertitta, owner of the jewels, the largest four carats, said the rings were wrapped in a handkerchief. Screens were placed over all taps leading from the building. Many feet of pipe have been taken out and inspected, a joint at a time, and the sidewalk outside was taken up to get to the main sewer pipe.

THE ROSE IN THE DARK

BY Roy Vickers

SYNOPSIS: Hallie Ellesmore, beautiful young nurse, whose desertion of Saxely Grannock at a critical time causes him to go blind, is also the girl he loves, but Grannock does not know it. Only Hallie and her ex-fiance, Lester Broom, Grannock's half-brother, know that it was Broom, drunk, who detained her against her will. Because Hallie's presence helps Grannock he is kept in ignorance of the situation. Grannock and Hallie plan to be married, but Lester threatens to tell Grannock Hallie is the nurse who blinded him unless she marries him instead. Hallie, an orphan, is told by Mrs. Bartholomew, friend of her dead aunt, that her real name is Rose Conaldine, and Grannock knows her only by that name, not as Ellesmore. Another Rose Conaldine in New York is told by her guardian, Mr. Perle, a lawyer, that she is heiress to a $50,000 a year income, after Perle discovers she has employed a private detective to probe her origin when Perle refuses to tell her of it. Both Roses are told their father was Clem Conaldine, suspected murderer who never was caught. Hallie fails to keep an appointment to marry Lester in New York, and he returns to Southcliff, L. I., in search of her, meanwhile having met the heiress Rose Conaldine by accident.

Chapter 22

AN ANONYMOUS WARNING

At the Broom mansion Lester found only a letter from Dr. Lytton saying that he had taken Grannock to Baltimore for treatment by Dr. Downing, the eye specialist, accompanied by Nurse Casey. There was no word of Hallie.

Lester assumed she must have gone back to New York and so returned there, but after a week's search of hospitals and nursing homes where she must of necessity seek employment, he was forced to admit himself beaten. The strain was beginning to wear him down. In desperation he went back to Southcliff and sought out Dr. Lytton, who already had written that he had returned.

"Morning, Broom. I was just going to write to you. Dr. Downing considers that his latest treatment might be of value to your brother."

He led the way indoors.

"Praps I've been worrying about 'd Socks," suggested Lester.

"I suppose I shall hear how he gets on?"

"Certainly."

"Well, look here, what I really came about was Miss Ellesmore. Do you know where she is?"

"She went back to New York," said Lytton, fixing his eyes upon Lester.

"Oh yes—I suppose she did—went to buy clothes and get all ready to marry Socks when he comes back! That's a nice little yarn, but you know well enough that if Socks gets his sight back he'll find out she's the girl he's got such a grudge against; and if he doesn't, you'll separate 'em somehow. You told me yourself that you'd get her out of Socks' life as quickly and quietly as was safe."

"Well?" growled Lytton.

"I'm merely reminding you that she's engaged to me, that she's going to marry me and that if you don't want her to marry Socks, you might just as well help me to find her."

"If she wanted to marry you, you wouldn't have to look for her, I imagine."

"She wants to marry me all right. At any rate she'd far rather marry me than have me explain matters to Socks."

"That's a specially rotten way of blackmailing a woman!"

"Think so? Somehow, I can't see it. It's simply presenting my point of view."

Lytton turned his back and stared out of the window.

"You may find it hard to believe," he jerked out, at last, "but I won't help any man to force himself upon a girl who doesn't want him, whatever my private opinion of her may be."

"I tell you, I shall make her perfectly happy. There'll be an ample income and nothing to do but spend it. And very likely there'll be Socks with his sight as good as ever and nothing for any one to worry about."

"She announced, in your presence, that she had no intention of marrying you. Unless she assures me she has changed her mind—"

"She changed it when she decided she didn't want Socks to hear her sad little story. And I don't doubt you'll come to admit that she showed sense."

"Blackmailing me, too, are you?"

"Oh, don't be that way, doctor! I'm only looking at the thing from my point of view."

The veins were standing out in Lytton's face. His hands were clenched and his shoulders thrust forward.

"Are you definitely telling me that you'll write the truth to your brother if I don't help you to find Miss Conaldine?" he shouted.

"I suppose it comes to that."

"It's you that your brother ought to know the truth about, you cur!"

"Well, tell him if you think it'll cheer him up. I won't stop you."

Lytton strode back to the window.

There was a long silence. Lester, pleased and refreshed, lit a cigarette.

He had half finished it before the doctor came away from the window. Lytton's face bore no expression whatever.

"Very well," he said. "For Grannock's sake, Miss Ellesmore is in New England."

"Whereabouts in New England?"

"Boston." The doctor gave street and number. "She is in charge of an elderly lady—a mental invalid—she travelled with her and arranged to stay with her until she is accustomed to her new surroundings. . . . I suppose it's no use asking you to leave her in peace?"

"No use at all. I shall become a mental invalid myself if she dodges me much longer. I suppose you got her the job?"

"I recommended her in the first place. Though I fail to see why I should have to explain myself to you."

"Only," exclaimed Lester gracefully, "so that I may thank you on her behalf. It must have jarred your conscience horribly."

"Go on—get out of my house!" returned Lytton with violence.

A quarter of an hour later, Dr. Lytton sent a telegram. It ran as follows: "Broom probably starting north today." It was directed to Conaldine at the address he had given Lester, but he did not sign it. . . .

Baffled in his search for Hallie, Lester takes drastic measures in tomorrow's chapter.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

Entertained Choir: Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Gilliland entertained the Presbyterian church choir and a number of other friends at their home on Carlisle street Wednesday evening. Refreshments were served the guests, of whom there were about 30.

Weddings: Milligan—Rudisill.—Miss Pauline Rudisill and James A. Milligan, of Stamford, Connecticut, were married at the home of the bride, Lincoln avenue, Tuesday afternoon about 2 o'clock, by the Rev. Stewart Rudisill, Salona, a brother of the bride, assisted by the Rev. J. B. Baker.

The bride wore a gown of white messaline made with train. Her veil was caught with orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of valley lilies. She was attended by her sister, Miss Grace Rudisill, who wore a gown of white silk marquisette over pink. The groomsmen were Walter Anderson, Schenectady, New York. The wedding march was played by Miss Mary Bush, York.

Mr. and Mrs. Milligan will spend their honeymoon in Washington. Mrs. Milligan is a daughter of Frank Rudisill. She is a graduate of Gettysburg high school with the class of 1912.

Mr. Milligan is engaged in the real estate business in Stamford, Connecticut, where they will reside.

Mark—Yates:—Hanson P. Mark, the well-known merchant of Ardentville, and Miss Elizabeth Yates, Hunterstown, were married in Baltimore, Tuesday, October 12, at 6:30 p. m., by the Rev. W. H. Dunbar, in the parsonage of St. Mark's Lutheran church. The marriage was quite a surprise to the friends of the couple.

The marriage is the outcome of a romance which began about a year ago, when Miss Yates nursed Mr. Mark through a serious illness. She has been nursing in the county for a number of years and during Mr. Mark's illness, she was called to Ardentville.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark left for a wedding trip to Baltimore and New York and upon their return they will reside in Ardentville. Mr. Mark conducts a furniture store and undertaking establishment in that borough and is a prominent citizen of the vicinity. He is a member of the Masonic Fraternity and has a wide acquaintance in Gettysburg.

Mrs. Mark is a daughter of Mrs. William Yates, Hunterstown, and has resided with her mother.

Homan—Beck:—Ivan Ernest Homan and Miss Virginia Marie Beck were united in marriage Friday evening at eight o'clock at the M. E. parsonage, Hanover, by the Rev. J. W. Glover. The bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Homan, West Middle street, and is at present employed at the Hanover Shoe Factory. They will reside at the bride's home in Hanover.

Spindle Carver Injured: While operating a spindle-carving machine at the Gettysburg furniture factory Saturday morning, Howard Sheffer, York street, had the index finger of his left hand badly cut when the wood which he was carving, slipped, throwing his hand against the swiftly-revolving blade. The finger was cut nearly to the bone and almost the length of the member. Dr. Hartman dressed the injury.

Stork Visits: Mr. and Mrs. Christopher C. Benson, Straban township, recently, a daughter. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Baker, West Middle street, announce the birth of a son Tuesday.

Rev. Fr. Mark Stock Comes as Pastor to New Oxford Church: The Rev. Father Mark Stock, formerly assistant at St. Patrick's Catholic church, Carlisle, will become pastor of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, New Oxford, according to changes that have been announced in the diocese of Harrisburg. Father Shields, who has been pastor at New Oxford, has been transferred to Sunbury.

During the five years that he was located at Carlisle, Father Stock had charge of the services at the Indian school and is held in great esteem by the pupils there. Father Stock was ordained to the ministry in 1909 and said his first mass in St. Francis Xavier church here.

He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Stock, Baltimore street. His promotion to the pastorate of the New Oxford church is Father Stock's first rectorship and is considered an important one for such a young priest, in that New Oxford parish is a first class church.

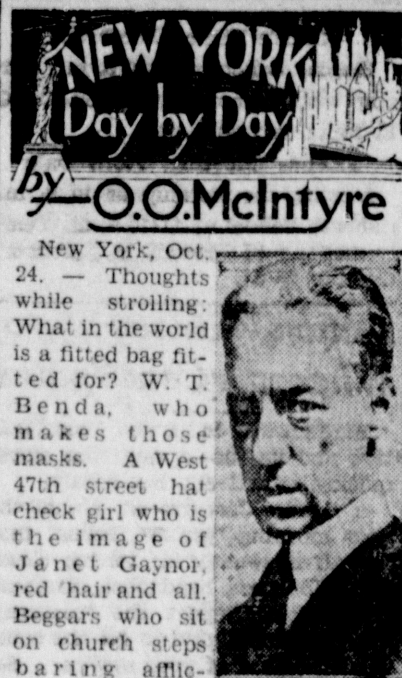

Family Reunion: A reunion of the Gelbach family, of which nine members, besides other relatives, were present, was held Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Caldwell, Chambersburg street. Those who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Elmer E. Stover, Washington, D. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Wertz, Fairfield; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Weikert, Greenmount; Mrs. Jennie Ogden, Wichita, Kansas; Mrs. Clarence E. King, Harrisburg; John Gelbach, King Rock; Chas. Gelbach, Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Hartman and Mr. and Mrs. James Caldwell, Gettysburg; Mr. and Mrs. Ben Miller, Wichita, Kan.; Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Werheim, Glen Rock; Mrs. Chas. Gelbach and daughter, Ruth, Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. George Hartman and son, George, Gettysburg; Donald King, Harrisburg, and Le Mar Yost, Baltimore.

Many Local Hunters Get Limit on Opening Day: Nearly 1,000 Adams county nimrods were in the woods Friday, the opening day of the squirrel, pheasant and quail season. They report game plentiful.

Some local hunters, who got the limit, six, were: Edward Wenschhoff, Bernard Hoffman, Murray Long, Ralph Deatrick, Harry Riggs, Jay Bringham, James Oyler, Dr. E. H. Markley, Harry Hoke, Roy Thomas and George Hampton. Others who got less, were: Glenn Sheely, 5; P. W. Stalmsmith, 4; Carl Oyler 3; Roy Zinn 2; Howard Gerber 2; Lawrence Lady 2; and the following one each: Ralph Oyler, William Oyler, David Blocher, Robert Oyler and Lester Oyler.

Local Factories Decline Offer of Munitions Agents: With a view of securing estimates which, if accepted, would lead to the placing of large orders for shrapnel boxes, with the local furniture companies, two Baltimore men, representing concerns that manufacture war munitions, were in Gettysburg yesterday and consulted officials of the plants. Owing to the lack of facilities for handling the work and amount of business that is now on hand, the offer was not accepted. One of the men who figured in the proposed negotiations was David M. Wolf, former resident of Gettysburg.

NEW YORK Day by Day
by O.O. McIntyre
New York, Oct. 24. — Thoughts while strolling: What in the world is a fitted bag fitted for? W. T. Benda, who makes those masks. A West 47th street hat check girl who is the image of Janet Gaynor, red haired and all. Beggars who sit on church steps baring afflictions. New busses with side doors. Eva La Galliene, a London, England, girl, who made good in the city. No actress in New York inspires such applause as Belle Baker singing 'Eli Eli.' How many Sobol Brothers are they? That cop certainly won't give that gorgeous lady a ticket? He did. The old fish-face.

Who remembers when plates were turned upside down over the silver in setting the table? Something a little bit all right about a young father who pushes a baby buggy these snooty days. Musical exchange bulletin board: "Wanted: Six hot crooners who look like Vallee!"

Comedy counter clowns in the Coffee Pots. A milk white roadster trimmed in garnet leather. And the show girl who drives it. A wise poet fathered the line: "Gather ye rose-buds while ye may!" And who knows right off who won the war of Roses? Gil Patten, the white-haired Frank Merriwell author.

Johnny Gruelle, who draws hilarious cartoons of the cross-roads. A movie star has to be good to last six months these days. Youngsters going to Lysistrata—being obscene and not heard. Curb comics are saying Gilda Gray has a touch of writhe's cramps. And the new dog song is "Litter by litter."

The sun sinks behind Jersey in a splendid flame. Nothing will renew faith like watching a sunset. And some morning I must sneak up on a sunrise. They are not hard to take either. Rat faced pic-pockets who hang out at jewelry auction sales. They always work out on me in the subways.

Dinner neckers drifting to shadowy Chinese cafes. Orange drink places still running full tilt. The glassy-hard smile of ladies who must live. Mark Hellinger and his wife, Gladys Glad. What inspires a fellow to take up trombone playing as a career?

—OO—
The dollar-five-and-ten game outlives a fad. Each player goes shopping with a dollar and the one bringing the biggest bundle of five and ten cent store articles to the cocktail party wins all the truck and a dollar from each player. After that everybody settles down to a stretch of serious drinking.

—OO—
A huge chortle in a musical show: A young girl is asked if she is going to take bacteriology at college. She chirps: "Don't bacillite!" And if the boy editor of College Humor doesn't call a fair tale of royalties on that one he is not commercially conscious.

—OO—
Speaking of colleges, I recently saw a letter written by a glorious Old Dad to a son who was graduated two years ago. The lad has been clerking in a Paris bank. Said the letter:

"Dear Son: I am transferring $15,000 to your Paris account. At the moment money has a glamour in your eyes. In thirty years the thrill of spending will begin to vanish. I do not expect you to account to me for a penny. It undermines your moral stamina you would fall later in some other way. So I shall feel no blame. It would please me tremendously, for I love you with a greater devotion than you will ever know, if you wrote me at least twice a month wherever you are, but that is only a fatherly wish and not a command. I have arranged that your job there or one similar in New York awaits your return. You are to have for one year the leisure and freedom I would have liked to have had, but missed.—Dad."

—OO—
Then there is the banker's son who left home suddenly in a huff, leaving a note reading: "You haven't a chance to make me one of your vice presidents. I'm determined to amount to something."

Courtney Cooper tells of the East Sider who grew to middle-age without leaving Manhattan Island. Then he went on a trip to Denver. In the middle-west solitude near Cleveland he was gazing out the train window at the pastoral beauty. Finally in a philosophic blurt he exclaimed brightly: "No matter where you go, you allus find human life." (Copyright, 1930, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Just Folks

THE HUMBLER POSTS
The janitor was taken ill. And none there was his post to fill. The fires went out; the rooms were cold. The women folks began to scold; In bags the morning mail remained. And all about disorder reigned.

The office boy remained away. And topsy turvy went the day. With none the messages to run. A dozen things were left undone. And clerk and foreman grumbled long. Because so many plans went wrong.

The president went out of town. But naught occurred to cause a frown. The fires were lit, the errands run. The needful tasks were promptly done. They scarcely noticed he was gone. So smoothly everything went on.

The point is this! all order needs The sum of big and little deeds. Though business leadership requires There must be one to build the fires. Since trivial cares disturb us most, Important is the humble post.

SUNDOWN STORIES
WONDER SIX
By Mary Graham Bonner
"We're going to the Sixth Wonder of the World," the Little Black Clock began. "and of course, for these Wonders, I am turning the time very far back."

The scene was changed, and John and Peggy saw a most beautiful looking building with tall pillars. On the top was a pyramid and steps led from it to a chariot of marble.

Inside the chariot were a man and a woman, made of marble, and the chariot was drawn by four horses each looking exactly alike, for, as the Little Black Clock explained the four horses were all made to look like the famous horse, Bucephalus, which had been ridden by Alexander the Great.

"It was built," said the Little Black Clock, as they gazed upon this Sixth Wonder of the world, "by a Queen of long ago whose name was Artemisia."

"The King, her husband, was called Mausolus, and when he died she wanted to put up a splendid and magnificent tomb in his honor."

"I had to turn the time back to let you see it, for it is no longer in existence."

"How queer it seems," said John, "to think that we're able to see things that no longer can be seen by people."

"That's because of my lucky magic, of course," said the Little Black Clock.

"Is the lady in marble supposed to be the Queen?" Peggy asked.

"Yes," the Little Black Clock answered, "and the gentleman in marble is supposed to be the King."

"The Queen wanted their statues to be put on top of the beautiful tomb or building, so that even in a statue she would be standing beside the King whom she loved so very dearly."

As they were turning away from this Wonder the Little Black Clock said, with a smile:

"And tomorrow night I'm going to turn the time ahead!"

Tomorrow—"The Face."

TODAY'S TALK
By GEORGE MATTHEWS ADAMS

BRIDGES
NEVER was a bridge built that didn't have interest attached to it! Even the crudest, in its way, is beautiful and full of meaning. The other day I passed by the great new bridge that is being built across the Hudson river in New York city. When completed, it will be, I believe, the largest and most remarkable suspension bridge in the world. The great overhanging cables are now connected and form a wonderful connected arm from New Jersey to Manhattan Island in New York. And no matter how many times I cross one of the bridges that connect this great city of New York to Brooklyn, I marvel at the beauty and usefulness of each.

And in Chicago, those great bridges that separate and are lifted for the river traffic, seem almost human.

Whenever I take that lovely ride through the Canadian Rockies, I look for the bridges that gap the great mountains. The train slows and then you crawl over the bridges a thousand feet or more above the river and valley below. And every once in a while you hear the roar and music of falling waters, hurrying to get down where it is cool and where other friendly waters await those from the heights.

I love the small foot bridges across streams. When touring, I cannot cross any bridge fast. I want to drink in all it has to offer of beauty and feeling.

Japanese bridges are all constructed poems. I hope some day to visit that interesting country of Japan and see them first hand.

In a remarkable way, the human mind is a bridge builder! It builds bridges with its will, its latent courage, its faith and its understanding. No matter how difficult, or seemingly impossible, any task may appear, this mind is able to build a bridge across all problems, where the bridge is needed.

Sometimes God becomes this bridge, and then at others, a father or mother, or beloved one, and we are safely landed upon the other shore.

Little Jack Rabbit

MORE ADVENTURES

Let's see, how did I end the last story? Oh, yes, our little rabbit was crossing a river on a plank because there was no bridge or boat. Well, as he has already landed on the other side, I'll now relate what happened after that.

"I was lucky to get across on that old board," he sighed, looking about him to see what manner of country he was in. It seemed very much like the Pleasant Pasture at home; in the distance stood a black cow, flicking off pesky flies with her long tail.

"Hello!" greeted the little bunny, as he drew near. "Why don't you eat the daisies as well as the grass?"

"Why don't you stand on your hair?" answered the cow, rather ungraciously, to our small bunnikin. Then, would you believe it? He really did stand on his head; then he turned two somersaults and a handspring backward, which made the old cow laugh so hard that she somehow twisted her tail in the old rail fence and couldn't get away.

"Dearest me!" she sighed, most anxiously, "what am I to do at milking time? The farmer will wonder where I am."

"Don't worry," cried the little bunny, and opening his knapsack, he brought forth a little hatchet and commenced to chop her tail—beg pardon, the rail off the fence. Of course, she had to drag the rail back to the farm and be scolded by the farmer for breaking down his old fence, but that was not so unpleasant as being tied by one's tail all night to a rail.

After this little act of kindness, the bunny boy hopped away, and when it grew dark he tried to hide in a pile of wood. "This will be a good safe place to sleep in," he was saying to himself as he hunted about for an opening. But, Oh, dear me! and Oh dear you! Just then a big Owl hooted and tooted three times.

"What are you doing with my woodpile? Trying to steal it away with a smile?"

"No, no, NO!" cried the frightened little bunny. "I was only looking for a place to sleep in."

"Don't believe you," tooted the disagreeable bird, and he made a grab for the little bunny with his hooked toes and crooked bill. And he would have caught him right then and there had not the quick-witted little bunny pulled out his popgun. Bang! went the cork bullet into the tail feathers of the old owl, scaring him nearly to death.

Away he fluttered this way and that, into the wildwood. Where, upon the little rabbit, finding no better shelter than the old woodpile, crept underneath and went to sleep, to dream of clover tops and lollypops, ice cream cones and lasses drops. And while he lay dreaming the stars came out and covered the sky like dandelions on a meadow, and in the next story you shall hear what happened after that, unless, of course, a robber comes and steals my Memory Hat. In which sad event your Uncle Dave Cory will have to go to Rabbitville to find another story.

Thief Takes Man's Teeth And Glasses

Atlanta, Oct. 24 (AP)—Police Thursday pondered the plight of H. P. Cooley, who can neither read the newspapers nor eat solid food because of a thief.

Cooley told police he was in his automobile and became ill from fumes of escaping gasoline. A stranger came by and took advantage of his condition by stealing his spectacles, his false teeth and $5.
